

CATARH CURED BY DRY AIR.

Hymel Medicates the Air You Breathe.
Kills the Germs and Cures
the Disease.

Hymel cures catarrh thoroughly and permanently, because it reaches the smallest air cells in the head, throat and lungs, kills the germs causing the disease and drives it from the system. Hymel goes to the root of the disease, destroys the cause, and makes permanent cures which can be effected in no other way. Breathe it for a few minutes four times a day and benefit will be seen at once. Continue this treatment for a few weeks and Hymel will have cured you.

The Hymel in the inhaler furnished with the outfit dries and sterilizes the air you breathe. It is a local and direct treatment for eradicating all catarrh germs in the mucous membrane and tissues and in this way cures catarrh in any part of the system. Used in connection with Hymel Balm it has been successful in curing the worst and most deep-seated cases of catarrhal deafness.

A. W. Clark of Everett, Mass., writes: "I have spent a fortune on different treatments for catarrh and could not hear across the table. After using Hymel and Hymel Balm for eight days I can hear as well as ever."

Stronger than any claims that can be made in an advertisement is the fact that the Red Cross Pharmacy will give their personal guarantee with every Hymel outfit they sell to refund the money if the purchaser can say that Hymel has not given satisfaction.

FORESTS ARE BURNING

Pennsylvania Villages Threatened With Destruction.

BIG OIL FIELD IN DANGER.

Fifty Rigs in McKean County Burned—Apparently No Way to Save Hundreds of Wells—Large Forces Fighting Flames.

Bradford, Pa., May 13.—Forest fires are again raging in this vicinity. Near Ormsby fifty oil well rigs have been destroyed, the majority of them belonging to the South Pennsylvania Oil company. Nine thousand cords of wood, chopped and piled in the forest to be used in the manufacture of wood alcohol, were consumed. The wood belonged to E. W. Hilton of this city. Hundreds of men are at work endeavoring to divert the course of the flames from endangered oil wells and other property. The fire is moving rapidly through a region where many oil wells are located, and there is no absolute way of checking its progress.

At Timbuctoo another forest fire is raging. A family living in the woods near Ormsby were compelled to leave their cottage, and they are missing. Whether they are lost in the woods or have been overcome by the smoke and flames is unknown.

Firemen Save Three Villages.

The lumbermen and mountaineers of Cambria, Somerset and Westmoreland counties are praying for rain to quench the forest fires that have been raging for a week. By almost superhuman efforts of the inhabitants and with the aid of fire companies summoned from Altoona and Johnstown the villages and mills at Dunlo, Vintondale and Twin Rocks have been saved. On the Laurel Hill in Westmoreland county several houses have been burned and loss of life was narrowly avoided. Guards surround the Conemaugh powder company's plant at Seward to prevent the flames reaching that establishment.

The relays of mountaineers and lumbermen work about two hours each, when a new body of fire fighters takes the place of each retiring brigade. The most destructive forest fire in years is sweeping the ridge and threatening the destruction of Waterford and Laughlinstown. The fire commissioners have a large force of men fighting the fire.

Torg, editor of a Socialist organ, interrupted the speaker. A pitched fight followed inside the church. Fists, canes and chairs were used, and the Abbe Valadier was struck in the face with a cane and felled by a blow from a chair. Fifteen of the rioters were arrested.

Ultimatum Has No Effect.

Mobile, Ala., May 13.—The ultimatum issued by General Manager Clark to the effect that all striking employees must return to work or their places would be filled by new men failed of effect here, as none of the men returned. How an abscess in the Fallopian Tubes of Mrs. Hollinger was removed without a surgical operation.

"I had an abscess in my side in the fallopian tube (the fallopian tube is a connection of the ovaries). I suffered untold misery and was so weak I could scarcely get around. The sharp burning pains low down in my side were terrible. My physician said there was no help for me unless I would go to the hospital and be operated on. I thought before that I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which, fortunately, I did, and it has made me a stout, healthy woman. My advice to all women who suffer with any kind of female trouble is to commence taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once."—Mrs. Ira S. Hollinger, Stillville, Ohio. $5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

It would seem by this statement that women would save time and much sickness if they would get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and also write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free and always helps. No other person can give such helpful advice as Mrs. Pinkham to women who are sick.

STODDARD POET, DEAD

Another of New York's Literary Landmarks Gone.

PRECEDDED BY SON AND WIFE

Distinguished Poet and Essayist, Only Recently Deceased of All His Family, Victim of Ills Incident to Old Age.

New York, May 13.—Richard Henry Stoddard has died at his residence, 329 East Fifteenth street, aged seventy-eight.

Mrs. Stoddard died less than a year ago, and his son, Lorimer Stoddard, is also dead. Mr. Stoddard was the only one of the family left.

For a week past he had been confined to his bed with rheumatism of the heart and ill incident to old age. The end was, however, not expected so soon.

The death of Richard Henry Stoddard takes from New York one of its most venerable and respected literary figures. Although the old poet and critic had led a more or less retired life for many years, he was almost up to the last engaged actively and regularly in the labors of his profession, keeping abreast of the ever swelling flood of new publications despite his failing health and eyesight and the shocks of severe domestic affliction.

A Self Made Man.

He was a self made man, coming of that sturdy New England stock which often seems to flourish best in the face of obstacles and misfortune. Born in Hingham, Mass., on the 2d of July, 1825, the son of a ship captain, he lost his father, who went down at sea, before he was ten years old and was brought to this city by his mother, who soon married again. For some time he attended the public schools, but it was necessary for him to earn his living, and he went to work while still very young in an iron foundry.

Soon his health, unequal to the strain of arduous physical exertion, compelled him to abandon the foundry, and it was then that he began to think of getting a living by his pen. At this time he was twenty-three years old. With many misgivings he offered a number of versical compositions to the weekly and monthly press and succeeded at most beyond his most sanguine expectations.

In 1849 Mr. Stoddard printed privately a collection of his early poems under the title "Footprints." This edition he destroyed a little later on, although the book did not lack admirers.

Formally Enrolled With the Poets.

In 1852 he published a volume of mature work, which was exceedingly well received; became a contributor to the Knickerbocker and enrolled himself formally and finally in the army of poets. In 1853 he published his "Adventures in Fairyland," which was intended chiefly for the young. But he soon found that it would be necessary for him to have some other means of subsistence than his pen, and through the influence of Nathaniel Hawthorne he was able to secure a position in the custom house, which he held from 1853 until 1870, and this was the period of his greatest literary activity.

Many Years an Editor.

His literary occupations, indeed, were so varied and insistent that he was compelled to resign his position in the custom house. From 1870 to 1873 he acted as the private secretary of General George B. McClellan when the latter was commissioner of docks in New York, and for a year he filled the position of city librarian. For ten years, from 1890 to 1870, he discharged the duties of literary reviewer for the New York World in the days when that journal was held in repute as an authority on literary and artistic subjects, and in 1880 he accepted a similar position on the staff of the Mail and Express, which he held to the day of his death. Two of his latest publications are "The Lion's Cub" and "Under the Evening Lamp."

TRIAL NEAR END.

Shamrocks Will Go to Yards Monday to Get Ocean Rigs.

Gourock, Scotland, May 13.—Sir Thomas Lipton and Designer Elfr have decided that it is not necessary to devote further time to trials between the Shamrocks on this side of the Atlantic. Consequently Saturday's race will be the last. The two yachts will be sent to the Greenock yard Monday in order to be fitted with their ocean rigs. Racing, however, has been arranged for every day this week.

The boats started at 10:30 in the morning over a course from Gourock to Rothsay and Balloch bay and return, forty miles. A light, steady wind was blowing, and fine weather canvas was set on both yachts.

The Shamrock I. had the advantage in being 200 yards dead to windward when the yachts started to beat down channel on the first leg of the course. But the cup challenger, lying very high in the wind, pulled up steadily. After a couple of miles short tacking the Shamrocks came together, and the challenger had done so well that she was able to cross the bows of her opponent and take the lead.

In a freshening wind the challenger constantly widened the gap, gaining practically a minute a mile.

The yachts luffed round Toward point and beat into Rothsay bay. The challenger was about a mile and a half ahead on turning the Rothsay mark at the finish of a ten mile beat. The times here were: The Shamrock II., 1:03:15; the Shamrock I., 1:11:40.

After turning the mark at Rothsay bay the programme was altered. Instead of making for the mark in Balloch bay the yachts headed up the firth and homeward. The wind was light and fuky, and not much interest was taken in this part of the trial.

The yachts finished the run in close company, turned together off Greenock for a short beat to windward to Gourock and finished the day's work. During the final beat the challenger luffed right across her opponent's course and gained half a minute in ten minutes' sailing.

LYNCHERS AT A CIRQUE.

Negro Forced to Flee From Wild Band of Students.

Chicago, May 13.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Columbia, Mo., says that a negro employee of a circus there was obliged to flee from the tent at the performance to escape lynching by a mob of Missouri university students. During a rush for seats the negro struck Stanley Sisson of Toledo, O., a student, a blow on the head with a tent pole, causing a dangerous but not fatal wound. The students on seeing the blood flow rushed over the ropes and one of the football team caught the negro with his fist on the point of the chin. The negro rolled under the tent and escaped in the darkness.

The students assaulted a number of the employees and demanded the negro be given up that they might string him to the center pole, but he could not be found. The circus was allowed to proceed, but when a negro singer appeared in the concert the performance was broken up in an uproar of groans and hisses.
